

First Year Seminars for New Students

“Well begun is half done.” - Aristotle -

Join one or more of these “First Year Seminars” where you will

- get first-hand information from successful senior students, excellent teachers, caring staff as well as eminent alumni, so that you can better plan for your university life
- have a chance to ask any questions about new students’ 4 major areas of concern namely, “Connecting with the University and Students”, “Setting Achievable Goals for University Life”, “Building Academic Success” and “Living in a Lively and Diverse Campus”, and get their viewpoints and advice, so that you can initiate the process of self-reflection and begin your journey to self-improvement
- have a good start by knowing the basic survival skills and also where to seek further information and assistance when necessary
